To our New York-based subscribers:

The Review of Securities & Commodities Regulation has been certified by the New York State Continuing Legal Education Board as an Accredited Provider of continuing legal education in the State of New York. Experienced (nontransitional) lawyers in your firm may receive CLE credits by affirming that they have read particular articles in The Review and by correctly answering four out of five true/false questions about the articles. The entire process may be completed at the attorney's desk. There is no requirement to attend any kind of seminar.

This approval for a reading-only program for CLE credit is virtually unique in the State of New York.

This is how the program works: Interested lawyers in firms that subscribe to The Review can get CLE credit by reading an issue and then taking the five-question true-false quiz at the end. To get credit, the lawyer needs to circle the correct answers, complete the affirmation, and check the appropriate evaluation box at the bottom of the page. The next step is to return the form to us either by fax or scanned e-mail attachment. If at least four out of five questions are answered correctly, we will send a certificate for one CLE credit in professional practice for each quiz submitted.

The cost of the program is $40/credit. We invoice firms at appropriate intervals. There is a financial-aid policy with reduced rates for qualifying attorneys.

If you have any questions concerning the program or eligibility for financial aid, please do not hesitate to e-mail us at rscrp@att.net or contact me at the above number and e-mail address. We urge you to take advantage of this convenient, efficient, and cost-effective way of earning CLE credits. Kindly bring this unique program to the attention of interested lawyers and your director of CLE.

Sincerely yours,

Vivian Berger
